

Administration's Policy Endangers U. S., Taft Tells GOP

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Sept. 11—Senator Robert A. Taft told fellow Ohio Republicans today that because the Democratic administration "failed in its foreign policy" this country is "in as much danger from abroad as before the war."

Keynoting the party's state convention, Taft devoted approximately one-fifth of his prepared address to a critical review of international affairs.

Domestically he predicted the election of Republican majorities in both the senate and house this fall and said the GOP will "formulate a program which President Truman can approve or disapprove at his peril."

Declaring that Presidents Roosevelt and Truman "pursued a policy of appeasing Russia," the senator asserted that the result was to sacrifice "the freedom of many nations and millions of people" throughout eastern Europe and Asia. Further, he said, it "has strengthened the Communist philosophy of the all powerful state in many other nations throughout the world."

At home, Taft said, "the new dealers have tried to teach our people that Communism is a kind of liberal democracy" while abroad this country "played directly into the hands of Mr. Stalin and helped create a situation now almost insoluble."

Only recently, the speaker continued, has the administration taken "a firm position against Russia." He attributed the change largely to the influence of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), now in Paris as an advisor at the peace conference to Secretary of State Byrnes.

Taft said there is no reason why both parties should not agree on foreign policy "as long as our policy is governed solely by a primary interest in the freedom of the American people, and peace throughout the world to insure that freedom."

"But," he added, "the only way to insure that result under conditions of today is to elect a Republican congress."

Discussing the GOP program, Taft said war controls must go without delay.

"By April 1 (1947) the OPA and price and wage control should be completely abolished and rent control for not to exceed one more year transferred to the housing administration."

"A resolution terminating hostilities should be promptly adopted. 'Peace-time conscription should be terminated unless there is a real threat of some new war, which God forbid."

"The extraordinary powers of the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes act should be allowed to expire, and replaced by constructive labor legislation setting up a complete system of mediation and voluntary arbitration, based on the strengthening of the collective bargaining process and of the responsibilities which are essential to it."

Taft asserted that Republican members of congress were able to block "most of the advance toward a totalitarian state" because the Democratic majorities in both houses are "split down the middle."

The keynote speaker declared that the administration has "utterly failed" to cut expenses and make it possible to reduce taxes; precipitated a wave of strikes "with more to come," and has "yielded to every pressure group powerful enough to influence politics or produce votes in those northern cities which must be carried by a Democratic house is to be elected."

Specifically, Taft recommended that government expenses, now running above $40,000,000,000 a year, be cut to less than $25,000,000,000 with taxes correspondingly reduced. Taft also said:

The contributory old age pension system and unemployment compensation should be extended to all employees, with pension payments increased.

The federal government should furnish poorer states educational aid grants, on condition that such states tax themselves more than the national average and distribute the money so that every child gets a basic education.

CIO SEAMEN MAY WALK OUT

Threaten Action Unless Pay Ruling Applies To Whole Industry

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—President Joseph Curran of the CIO National Maritime union said today that his union will go on strike unless the higher pay sought by AFL Maritime strikers is applied "to the whole industry."

Curran made the statement to a reporter as the CIO-dominated committee for maritime unity began a strategy session at which, the NLU chief said, the current all-coast maritime strike is "the No. 1 topic."

Simultaneously, the Wage Stabilization board received from the AFL a demand for reversal of its Aug. 23 ruling which touched off the seamen's work stoppage.

Green, Murray Contacted
A high AFL official told reporters that AFL President William Green is polling the 15 members of AFL executive council on whether to withdraw further union participation in the WSB as an offshoot of the maritime strike.

The AFL has one of the two labor members on the board.

Withdrawal of both the AFL and CIO members was advocated by the AFL seamen's strike committee in telegrams to Green and CIO President Phillip Murray, in the event the board rejects the AFL wage demands.

During these developments, there still was no official word from the White House that President Truman intended to intervene in the paralyzing maritime strike.

As the greatest maritime strike in history tightened its grip on the national economy, the Wage Stabilization board met in Washington to debate behind closed doors whether to accede to union and shipowners' pressure and okay a higher-than-pattern pay boost, or stand by its Aug. 23 ruling that AFL seamen must be content with the smaller raise won by CIO sailors.

W. Willard Wirtz, board chairman, said the decision may come today or tomorrow.

OPA Removes Price Tags on New Items

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—OPA, getting set to boost sugar prices, granted an 18 percent hike for window glass today and simultaneously wiped out all ceilings on razor blades, baby carriages, fountain pens and more than 20 other commodities.

Reports of the coming sugar price boost were confirmed by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson who said at Albuquerque the increase will be announced "in a day or two."

A job-lot of consumer goods, ranging from television sets to dry batteries, were removed from price control today. Opa said some were "insignificant in the cost of living," while others were in good supply and hence no longer in need of price restraint.

Items Affected

The decontrolled items are: Motor scooters, oil cans, scythes; sin glasses and goggles; cases for spectacles and sun glasses; razor blades and razors, except electric razors; baby walkers, strollers and carriages; dry batteries; fountain pens and mechanical pencils; buckles, fasteners and clasps, but not slide fasteners; portable air-conditioning equipment (under one horse power); hand lawn mowers; hand insecticide sprayers and dusters.

Also, floor coverings made of grass or fibre; cut, etched, engraved and sand-blasted glassware; furniture made wholly or mostly of plastics; television sets in combination with radio sets (others already have been decontrolled); nursery pads for high chairs, play yards and baskets; comforters (except down and feather filled); insignia, emblems and ornaments.

Photo Equipment
Also, some minor photographic equipment items, such as exposure meters, flash bulbs, flash bulb attachments and range finders (but not amateur roll film, cameras, projectors or enlargers); parts for power lawn mowers; accessories for ladders, such as paint hooks and extension racks; blankets and coverlets; with built-in heating elements; soap dispenser bowls; upholstered headboards for beds; fraternal wear, such as ceremonial swords and scepters.

The approximate 18 percent price increase in window and picture glass is effective at once. OPA also boosted by four percent the ceilings on glazed sash and windows, glazed sash doors, combination doors, and glazed garage doors, in order to cover the higher price of glass.

To a veteran buying a low-cost home, the increase will mean about $125 in the total cost of his window glass, OPA estimated. The price action compensates glass manufacturers for higher costs of labor, material and freight.

3,000 People Crowd Lisbon Fairgrounds, View Exhibits

LISBON, Sept. 11—The 101st annual fair here was the attraction of Columbiana county today as 3,000 visitors set the turnstiles clicking in what always has been this county's most colorful event announcing the arrival of the fall season.

With the harvest season completed, the event, staged under auspices of the Columbiana County Agricultural society, is an exposition displaying the prize crops and stock produced on the farms of this county and visitors to the fair marveled at the exhibits which were exceptional in view of the extremely dry season and lack of good growing weather this summer.

Salem Band Plays
Visitors to the fair today were welcomed to the grounds with concerts by the Salem high school band, while the main attraction of the morning was the "pig-iron derby" for teams up to 3,300 pounds.

Millions In Nazi Loot Is Uncovered In Germany

(By Associated Press)
FRANKFURT, Sept. 11—Surprise raids throughout the American and British occupation zones of Germany have uncovered millions of dollars worth of precious stones and metals hidden by the Nazis shortly before Germany surrendered. United States Army headquarters announced today.

The diamonds, gold, silver and platinum found in the raids were dispersed in hiding places by the Nazi government agency "Reichsstelle Fuer Edelmetalle" (Reich agency for precious metals) in an attempt to keep them from falling into Allied hands.

A spokesman for the United States Army Intelligence division said it was "conjectural but conceivable" that the hoard might have been designed to finance "a resurgence of German nationalist movements."

Timken Bearing Company Appeals NLRB Decision

CANTON, Sept. 11—The Timken Roller Bearing Co. has appealed a National Labor Relations board decision which found the company guilty of unfair labor practices in its relations with the CIO United Steelworkers of America.

The appeal was directed to the Sixth United States circuit court at Cincinnati.

The NLRB recently ordered the company to "cease and desist" from its alleged refusal to bargain with the union on five issues covering working conditions and the subcontracting of work.

The company maintained that it was not required to bargain on the issues because the union was on strike in violation of its contract with the company.

NLRB held that strikes allegedly in violation of contract agreements did not impair the company's obligation to bargain.

Broken To Harness

There are many technical reasons why there is no meat this week. They add up to the single fact that distribution, which had broken down under the old OPA, is no better under the new OPA.

The real reason why there is no meat worth mentioning to be bought over butcher shop counters legitimately is government. With the meat supply as with supplies of many commodities it can and has exercised its war-discovered power of life and death. Meat is here today and gone tomorrow because someone in Washington makes a decision.

But behind this there is something more significant than what happens to meat, refrigerators, radios, or white shirts. There is the thing that has happened to the American people. They have learned to take orders. They are approaching the German people themselves in the submissiveness with which they receive edicts.

Fear of public disfavor, which used to be a prime consideration among politicians, is ceasing to be worth considering at all. The people as a whole will knuckle under. The Europeanization of Americans is coming along nicely. They no longer are proud of their tradition of local autonomy. If the politicians can take care of the labor unions, whose members know how to apply the political whip to officeholders, they can depend on the people to take care of themselves. If the people do not have meat, let them eat macaroni. If they do not have sugar, let them experiment with saccharine. The American people have been broken to authoritarian harness.

War Talk Is Academic

An odd thing is evident in the war talk which has established a monopoly of the country's serious conversation.

The war talk is purely academic, unsupported by personal or national convictions. Everyone is talking about the possibility of war, but no one is doing anything about it because no one believes it.

War in 1946 is a theory. It is something that may happen if something doesn't happen. It is being discussed on a theoretical basis. For the first time in the 20th century, Americans are in a mood to talk frankly about the possibility of war, instead of burying their heads in the sand. But they are doing it in the mood of persons who discuss highway accidents. They are not going to be involved personally; the accidents will happen to someone else.

If the United States believed its mounting differences of opinion with Russia had reached warlike proportions, it would begin to show a few of the rudimentary signs of wanting to act on its convictions. It would move to protect itself in matters of internal security.

Instead, it is viewing with complete complacency a shipping strike that has cut it off from the rest of the world, including its own overseas forces. It is sparing good-naturedly with a host of handicaps which have been frustrating its efforts to reach a reasonable pace of peacetime production. There is a hangover of dog-days sleepiness and torpor in Washington. For a country talking about irreconcilable conflicts that may precipitate war, the United States is physically and psychologically as poorly prepared as it is possible to see, a circumstance that must be as obvious outside the United States as it is inside.

For Old Times' Sake

The apparent foolhardiness of Republican Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota, G.O.P. spokesman on taxation, in pledging a 20 percent cut if his party wins control of Congress gives the Democrats a chance to howl.

But before they howl too long and too loud that Representative Knutson is playing politics by pledging a tax cut, they should bear in mind that they are playing politics too.

For the first time in the political history of this country, a party has maintained itself in power by promising to put the government further into debt year by year. The only time reduction of federal spending ever was mentioned by New Deal Democrats was in the platform of 1932—the platform that promised economy. Since then, Democratic candidates have done very well by themselves year in and year out by promising to spend more of the public's money, and they have lived up to their promises.

It is old-fashioned in 1946 to mention tax reduction. It is old-fashioned to talk about saving money in Washington, and it probably isn't good politics. Representative Knutson hasn't a leg to stand on nor has the Republican party, except that a 20 percent reduction in something, if only in taxes, is a pleasant change from the increases that are coming home to roost in the opposition's coop. If Republicans organized the next Congress and voted a 20 percent tax cut, it also would be approximately three billion dollars less for taxpayers to pay.

No More Curiosity

The top-level decision to postpone the underwater test of the atomic bomb indefinitely suits the taxpayer. They have no more curiosity about the bomb's power. If the military experts have learned what they wanted to know, too, there's no reason to have any further experiments.

What the taxpayers wanted to know was whether the atomic bomb was as destructive as they thought it was after Hiroshima and Nagasaki. While the circumstances of the Bikini experiments were unfavorable, the taxpayers have decided that Hiroshima and Nagasaki probably were lucky.

They had one atomic bomb apiece. The next time a city is marked for an atomic explosion—if there must be more—there will be many bombs. The destruction in Hiroshima and Nagasaki will be multiplied by 10, 20, or more, depending on the size of the target. There will be total destruction, not in the sense of knocking out a city, as Hiroshima and Nagasaki were knocked out, but in the sense of complete, irrevocable extermination. The men who have made the experiments—and the taxpayers who have paid the expense—know that it would be possible with perhaps as few as two dozen atomic bombs to obliterate New York City and its inhabitants. Not all of them would be killed outright, but virtually all of them would die either immediately or within a matter of a few days.

All curiosity about the atomic bomb has been satisfied. The only questions that remain unanswered are technical, and they can be answered in time out of the same knowledge that is now coming into the public domain—that the atomic bomb is the equivalent of the ultimate destructive force inherent in nature itself.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, September 12

IT IS PROBABLE that this is a day in which events move into the horizon with such high tempo and excitement as to overwhelm sound judgment and customary calm in reaction to dramatic and thrilling situations. While the tension, nerves and passions are under stimuli to embrace unusual and devastating opportunities, final issues depend upon a calm, composed, far-reaching and profound control of the forces, faculties and emotional responses.

This benign element is accented, amenable to a progressive and constructive turning of the tables into surprising channels of accomplishment, but in all, be aware of an undermining current of treachery or duplicity from unsuspected sources. Past moves but not erratic ones are to lasting advantage.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of strenuous, exciting and aggressive developments, sweeping, far-reaching, thrilling. Vital issues are at stake, and may keep the tension and tempo keyed to concert pitch. Should controls be let out of normal bounds there could be a strange uprooting, devastating and disintegrating.

Mainly, the prospect is for a safe and sane grasp on impending and critical issues. There is a purely personal problem to cope with, probably with opposition from an elder or feminine influence. Also, an undercurrent of duplicity or intrigue is to be guarded against by shrewd and composed evaluation.

A child born on this day will be active, constructive and move into a career, dramatic and adventurous.

Treatment For Eye Injuries

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
VISION is so precious and the eye so delicate that injuries which would be trifling elsewhere must be given prompt attention when they occur to the eyes.

A flurry of dust, carried on a high wind, can set up a certain amount of irritation merely by brushing over the sensitive membranes of the eye. This is not a serious condition, whether caused by dust or other foreign material, but it can often result in soreness, redness and much discomfort and, hence, requires treatment.

Soothing Oil

In a case like this, where there is generalized irritation without actual scratching or cutting, the best thing to do is to use a drop or two of soothing oil and then put the eye at rest. After a day or so the condition usually clears up.

If the cornea or front part of the eyeball is injured, the condition is serious enough to require treatment by a doctor. Such injuries may come about in many ways. A baby, for instance, may scratch the cornea with his fingernail. In older people, blows or a bit of metal thrown into the eye may cause this type of damage.

Sometimes these scratches are difficult to see. For this reason, Dr. Frank W. Law of England, suggests the use of a preparation known as fluorescein to locate them. A drop or two of a solution of fluorescein is put into the eye and the excess is then washed out with water.

Then, a drop or two of boric acid solution is put into the eye and any injury to the cornea will show itself by a green stain produced by the fluorescein. The fluorescein will also show injuries which have occurred to the conjunctiva or lining membrane over the eyeball.

Other Treatment

These injuries to the cornea are also treated by putting the eye at rest, putting some antiseptic substance such as a sulfonamide ointment in the eye to ward off infection and using preparations which are soothing and relieve the pain and discomfort.

Bits of dust, metal or other objects may get into the eye. If these objects lodge on the conjunctiva they are usually removed quite easily by the doctor. If they are on

Lima Department Store Owner Wins First Round Over CPA

BY ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The Lima department store manager in Lima, Ohio, who challenged the clothing section of the Civilian Production Administration, came up with a first round knockout today. It wasn't even a contest. The CPA took one look—and hollered uncle.

The Lima vs CPA argument really started Aug. 30 after an inquisitive reporter asked, what's the outlook for men's clothing?

"Not too good," said the CPA man.

He added that CPA figures there will be a shortage of 15,000,000 men's suits by the end of the year.

Shirts and shorts, the CPA man mourned, probably will continue to be scarce for six months to a year. When this story hit Lima, the manager of "The Leader, Lima's leading department store," hit the ceiling.

"Scare Publicity," he cried. He bought an ad, four columns wide and 22 inches deep, in the Lima News, and set out after the CPA.

Despite the frightening word from Washington, the ad said, "there is more clothing on our racks than there was a year ago."

"Sure there will be 15 million men hunting suits on Dec. 31, 1946, if they don't wear a lot of other clothes while they are waiting."

The Leader's idea on shirts: Probably enough for the average man by the end of the year.

Shorts: On the counter right now, more on the way.

The ad added: "Don't be scared into buying what you don't need because of what some individual thinks. That's what causes shortages."

The CPA man took a quick look at the ad today, and backtracked. "The Leader is right," he told the same reporter. "Shortages can be, and often are, caused by people being scared into buying."

A New Customer Agreeing that the CPA could be wrong, he acknowledged that several times it has been caught far off its statistical base.

"I hope we're wrong on our men's clothing figures, too," he said. "I have a personal reason for that. You see, I have been scouting around for a size 37 long suit and some white shirts, 15 neck and 34 sleeves."

He picked up the ad and studied it again.

"And there was a hopeful, mall order gleam in his eye."

Over in England people throughout the country at the weekend prayed for better weather which would permit the beginning of the salvage of grain from rain-sodden fields.

Meantime in Philadelphia Britain's Archbishop of Canterbury was telling the national convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Episcopal lay organization, that world brotherhood and peace never will be attained apart from Christianity.

So there is faith—and far more than could be indicated in these three instances. However, there has developed a threat to religion which was brought out in the Philadelphia convention by John Foster Dulles, alternate United States delegate to the United Nations and a prominent layman, who declared that "the Soviet Communist party challenges the supremacy of the so-called Christian world," and continued.

"Collapsing at home ten percent of the human race, it offers leadership to a further 75 per cent constituting the overwhelming majority of Europe, Asia, Africa and South America. That challenge has had an initial success. In every part of the world there are influential groups which accept leadership from Moscow."

"We must convince Russia that, on our own principles, we do not want to impede her living in her own ideology. But we must convince her we do not want another ideology imposed where it has no welcome."

The significance of these statements of course rests in the fact that Communism is adamant in the doctrine that religion is the opiate of the masses and must be eliminated. Indeed, Communism is offered as a substitute for religion.

Now this is no contradiction of the circumstance that the Soviet government is permitting churches to conduct services in Russia. While churches are open, Communism never ceases its intensive campaign against religion, and an important part of this is carried on through youth movements which deal with the more pliable minds of childhood. You can't be a true Communist and believe in God at the same time.

But that isn't the whole story. Quite apart from Communism, untold thousands of people in Europe who came under the evil influence of Nazism are bogged down spiritually, morally and in morale, as I observed during my recent tour of the continent.

Hitler deliberately corrupted all he could among his own people and the peoples of neighboring states who came under his control. He did this so that they would assist, or at least not resist, his diabolical schemes for the enslavement of conquered nations.

That sounds like fiction, but it is all too true. And this host of wanderers constitutes one of the greatest problems of rehabilitation. As they are now, their position is all but hopeless. They are without guidance, and in due course they are going to be dug up by one of two faiths—Red Communism or Christianity. It depends on which gets there first, with the greatest driving force.

Ruined Curtains Cost Railroad $420

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—An irate housewife waved two lace curtains before Judge Samuel Heller in license court yesterday and it cost the New York Central railroad $420.

The railroad had been charged with violation of Chicago's smoke abatement ordinance and the curtain-waving act by Mrs. Bernice Hall clinched the case.

"Look at them, judge," fumed Mrs. Hall who lives near the NYC yards. "For 16 years" she added "smoke has been coming right in the windows and landing on my curtains. These curtains used to be white. Now look at them!"

The railroad, fined $420, promised some new equipment which would be kind to Mrs. Hall's curtains.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled-over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what indigestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Army Plans Alaskan Tests of Equipment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—At least one each of the Army's six types of tanks, including some from the Ordnance depot at Lima, Ohio, will be subjected to cold weather tests in Alaska this winter.

The Army's "Task Force Frigid" will ascertain through the tests what modifications, if any, are needed to enable the tanks to operate efficiently in an area where blizzards are frequent.

In the Fairbanks area, where the maneuvers will be conducted, the accumulated snow some times becomes five feet deep and the minimum temperature averages 18 degrees below zero in December, January and February.

The Army also will experiment with tank fuels and ammunition in the sub-zero cold.

Tests will be conducted, too, with hundreds of other equipment items, from clothing to radar.

Midway, and many other Pacific islands, which made history in World War II, are only about 20-600 years old. Apparently, a five-foot upheaval of Pacific land after the last Ice Age brought these coral atolls above the surface.

- 1 WEST: Within a few years, many established sawmills will run out of logs. Opportunities for new large-scale operations are limited.
- 2 NORTH: Timber depletion has shrunk industry to a small fraction of its former importance.
- 3 SOUTH: Stand of fast-growing pines is not sufficient to maintain present production rate.
- 4 EAST: Eastern half of country now has only about as much lumber as the 6 per cent of the forest area in Douglas fir region of Washington and Oregon.

It's difficult enough to get lumber now, but the problem's going to get tougher, warns the Department of Agriculture Forest Service. Reasons: during the war we used more timber than was produced and are still cutting and burning wood faster than trees grow. Newschart above rounds up the situation.

Veterans interested in the apprentice-training program have sent in the following questions:

Q—Once a veteran has finished a so-called apprentice-training course, what is he given as proof of his ability?

A—Upon completion of the term of apprenticeship, an apprentice becomes an all-round skilled worker. In recognition of his new status, he is awarded a Certificate of Completion of Apprenticeship, which is similar to a diploma awarded graduates of a school or college.

This certificate is issued by the State Apprenticeship Council, or by the Federal Committee on Apprenticeship in states where no council exists.

Q—I want to get in on an apprentice-training course, but they tell me that while in training I'll have to go to school. Is this true?

A—It is not compulsory that you attend outside classes. Most apprenticeship courses, however, provide for at least four hours a week of classroom study.

Q—What is the average length of an apprentice program?

A—About four years.

Q—I did carpenter work for a couple of years before I went into the Army. Now I have a chance to get into an apprentice-training program in a woodworking factory. I think my previous experience should enable me to start in an advanced status. If I can do this, will I be paid as a beginner or will I be able to get more money?

A—You can use your previous experience to start in an advanced position and you will be paid according to that position.

Q—Do the new ceilings on apprentices apply to disabled veterans?

A—No.

Coaches Eye Salem with Mixed Feeling

WITH SALEM'S OPENING game against Cleveland Rhodes just two days away, the pertinent question among local fans is "How good is the football team going to be this year?"

It's a hard one to answer, especially when it's impossible to estimate just how good are the other nine teams the Quakers will meet.

A partial answer, however, has been obtained of late from a small group of out-of-town coaches who watched the Quakers in action for the brief 15-minute game against Youngstown Chaney at Niles Saturday night.

Perhaps their opinions are prejudiced, perhaps they are based on a split-second comparison of Salem with their own squad, but nevertheless they are probably the best authoritative answers just now. At any rate, it's interesting to look them over.

Only the games themselves and the Quaker players themselves can supply the real answer—and for that we must wait!

ONE COACH HAD THIS TO SAY ABOUT SALEM

Ben has a potentially rough squad there. On offense for the few minutes Salem had the ball the boys looked fairly good Saturday, but there is still a lot to be learned by some of those linemen."

He continued, "It's obvious that Barrett isn't going to be worried about backs this year, for he has enough and the kind that can easily fill one another's place without hurting the offense too much. I wish I had that many and then perhaps my starters would be forced to work a bit harder."

He wasn't overly impressed with Salem's defensive line, said they lacked push in getting through after the ball carriers. However, he qualified his criticism by saying that the line was comparatively large and probably would come around into fine form by the end of the season.

ANOTHER COACH, also from this immediate area, was impressed considerably by the Quakers and made the statement that he was "glad we don't meet Salem this year."

He saw weaknesses in the line and backfield, however, and was particularly critical of an obvious weakness in the pass defense—the manner in which Chaney finally scored on fourth down with six yards to go.

A third mentor, one who will place his charges against Salem this season, said, "I think Ben has a flock of dangerous backs there. If he has the passing attack to go with the running attack Salem has shown me, I am going to have plenty of trouble."

He added that he could see weaknesses in the line, but felt that by one or two games the Quakers would have those fairly well plugged.

"All in all," he said, "I'm not anxious to keep that date with Salem."

QUALIFICATIONS CAN AND MUST be made to anything one coach says about another's team. Some try to build the opponent up for a let-down, others attempt the "you're-not-so-good" theory. Both angles sometimes work.

However, Salem isn't a finished team by a long shot so far, that is obvious to anyone who watches them in action—whether at Niles or on the practice field.

But Coach Barrett has a good gang of fellows this season. A better flock, in fact, than he has had for several years.

IF THE PLAYERS THEMSELVES decide to produce as their talents indicate they can, Salem is going to have a good football team. It's a decision that will have to remain with the players—not the fans, the coaches nor anyone else.

Barrett himself is optimistic, he has faith in his boys and thinks they can come through with flying colors.

Maybe he's right—and he could be wrong. Players sometimes let the coach down.

Texacos Play Here Today

YOUNGSTOWN LOSES IN NABF CONTEST

(By Associated Press)

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 11.—The only undefeated teams remaining in the 33rd National Amateur Baseball federation tournament—Dearborn and Detroit, Mich.—clashed today as the championship field was narrowed to eight clubs.

The teams were rained out yesterday and must play today before the fourth round is completed, and pairings made for continuance of the tourney.

Still in contention are Canton, O.; Northville, Mich.; Pontiac, Mich.; the Cleveland Roses, the Dayton, O.; and the Birmingham, Ala. Aces. The eight clubs have survived an original field of 24.

Eliminated yesterday were Memphis, Tenn.; Atlanta, Ga.; Royal Oak, Mich. and Youngstown, O.

Canton's 3 to 1 victory over Youngstown on a soggy field last night was a costly one. Third Baseman Don Triner broke his leg sliding into home plate in the fourth inning.

The crowd, on an appeal by Dolk Navro, NABF secretary, contributed $1,100 for Triner.

Yesterday's results:

Canton 3, Youngstown 1; Birmingham, Ala. 3; Cleveland 0; Pontiac, Mich. 4; Memphis, Tenn. 0.

Dayton 7; Atlanta, Ga. 3; Northville, Mich. 5; Royal Oak, Mich. 3, (14 innings).

There are approximately 11,000, 600 orphans and half-orphans in Europe today.

ONE OF LARGEST OPENING GAME CROWDS IN HISTORY TO SEE QUAKERS BEGIN '46

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a season's opener in Salem—guess estimated at 7,000 fans—is expected at Reilly stadium at 7:45 p. m. Friday when Coach Ben Barrett's Quaker eleven makes its seasonal debut against Cleveland Rhodes.

Rhodes, coached this season by Andy Moran, comes to Salem with high enthusiasm for a banner season and fully expects to make the trip home with Victory No. 1 tucked neatly in a side pocket.

Perhaps Rhodes has the stuff to do it and perhaps it hasn't. That remains to be seen Friday, but from all indications and reports from the Cuyahoga city school, the Clevelanders are fairly well armed for the assignment.

Moran, who assisted Coach Warren Vanorsdall before entering the Navy two years ago, was named head football coach last winter upon his return and Vanorsdall was named head basketball coach.

The new mentor has instilled an enthusiasm in his charges that has the school on its ear over football, reports say.

Besides the definite desire to go "great guns" this year, Cleveland is well supplied with veterans, speed and a diversified attack.

Back from the 1945 eleven which tied Salem 0-0 here in last year's opener, Cleveland has Right Half Jack Rohrbach, a 140-pound Senior, Quarterback Andy Putich, a 157-pound Junior, Tackles Ray Miller and Tony Turchan, both Seniors and weighing 192 and 188 pounds, respectively. Right End Carl Stibora, 168-pound Senior and Right Guard Bud Neuman, a 160-pound Senior.

The array of talent left over from the ponderous 1945 eleven, plus a host of promising other players, makes Rhodes dangerously formidable.

Coach Moran has named, besides those regulars, the following as starters:

The backfield, Cleveland reports show, is light, fast and very deceptive. Moran is believed to be using a single-wing and T formation in his offense this season.

Rhodes used the T here last season. Scouts who have seen the Rhodes team in action in scrimmage games, say Moran is emphasizing offense more than the average and has geared a speedy attack around String and Rohrbach.

Rohrbach played here in 1945 and displayed his speed merchant tactics well, despite the 0-0 tie game.

The situation between Salem and Rhodes will be somewhat different than last, when the Cleveland club out-weighted Salem 168 pounds to the man.

Salem's tentative starting lineup averages 168 this season, as compared to Rhodes' 163-pound average.

Salem's backfield hits a 153 average as compared to the Cleveland mark of 148.

Faculty Manager Fred Cope says most of the season tickets have been sold and a rush has been noted early this week for the remaining reserved seats. There are still plenty available, he says, but phone inquiries have indicated an unusual interest in the games this season.

Salem Rhodes played before over 4,500 fans in the opener last year and that mark is expected to be bettered by at least 1,500 this season.

Both the Salem and Rhodes bands will perform at halftime and Cope has several other specialty features in mind between halves.

LEETONIA BEARS' BOOSTERS MEET TODAY WITH TEAM

Will Introduce New Coach To Fans, Parents In Initial Session

Leetonia's Community Boosters Club, opening its activity for the 1946 football season, will meet tonight in the High school music room to introduce the new coach, Joe Fortunato, and his Leetonia Bear squad to the club members.

President Dick Reese, making final arrangements for the club activities this year, said all parents of players, High school officials and interested fans have been invited to the initial session.

The club's planning committee met last week along with the stadium light fund committee to map out special events for the year.

Among the projects considered were several money raising programs to pay for the lights installed at the stadium in mid-season, 1945.

The club also contemplated several entertainment projects for Coach Fortunato and his squad, including a possible trip to see a Cleveland Brown professional game in Cleveland early in October.

The club is publishing special football programs for each home game with paid advertisements from Leetonia and area merchants and a full page devoted to listing of individuals who have contributed to the light fund.

The programs will be sold at all games for 10 cents and the proceeds will be used to pay for the stadium lights. Already more than 50 persons have donated to the fund and advertisement sales are very encouraging, Reese said.

Leetonia plays its first home game Sept. 20 with Canfield.

The Leetonia Boosters club, with a membership of more than 200 this year, was organized two seasons ago and has been instrumental in aiding the High school with its complete athletic program getting installation of new and specialized athletic equipment and in aiding the community with general civic projects.

Marcus Holt is vice president of the club, Paul Sevensh is treasurer and Jack Ripley, secretary.

Scholastic Pigskin March Begins With Furo Friday

By DON STULL

Associated Press Sports Editor COLUMBUS, Sept. 11.—The biggest High school football season in history opens officially in Ohio this week with some 550 teams slated to engage in more than 2,000 contests before the curtain rings down Nov. 30.

Commissioner H. W. Emswiler of the Ohio High School Athletic association said early reports indicated this undoubtedly would be Ohio's biggest scholastic football year.

He estimated there would be at least three dozen more teams this season than the 514 which played regular schedules in 1945.

"Many schools have announced intentions of converting from six-man to eleven-man teams," said Emswiler, "while we have quite a few instances where schools are inaugurating the eleven-man squad right from the start."

Six-man football is on the upgrade, too, the commissioner said, but no accurate account of the number planning to play is available.

War-time transportation and equipment difficulties dropped the number of scholastic eleven-man games from a high of 477 in 1942 down to 400 in 1943, but the gridiron sport has been making a comeback in Buckeye High schools ever since.

There are no transportation difficulties this season, but Emswiler says the equipment problem still exists.

"Many coaches complain that they are unable to buy enough equipment—especially shoes—to outfit their squads," he declared, but recalled the days when chunks of leather nailed to shoe soles were considered adequate and predicted this wouldn't keep many teams from competing.

Have The Rules

"Some neighboring states have found themselves with an inadequate supply of rule books, too," said Emswiler, but the OHSAA foresaw this possible shortage and had enough on hand that it was able to ship some to neighboring Indiana.

The legal date for Ohio High schools to open the grid season is Friday and Emswiler said a full slate of games were on the schedule for that date.

In some instances, where two schools use the same stadium for example, the OHSAA has permitted moving up the opening date one day—to Thursday. But there will be no sanctioned football after Nov. 30, Emswiler asserted.

At least two of last year's undefeated teams will be risking their unblemished records in Friday's opening ceremonies. Newark's Wildcats, champions of the Central Ohio league without a setback in 1945, entertain Columbus East, co-champ in the Capital City loop last season, and Hamilton Catholic launches its quest for a second perfect year against Greenville at Hamilton.

Twenty-one of the greater Columbus area's elevens spring into action over the weekend, all five of Canton's scholastic elevens launch their programs, too, and by next weekend the Buckeye scholastic pigskin parade should be in full stride.

The Watch that aimed at the Stars!

Strictly speaking, precision time is the time of the stars. No watch in the world can match its perfection.

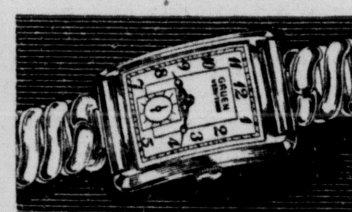

Gruen has tried to come as close to it as is humanly possible. In fact, Gruen is the one watch permitted to carry the trademark "Precision."

Behind this trademark lie 70 years of skill and craftsmanship... Behind it are revolutionary new departures in design like the famous patented Gruen Curvex... a watch so daring, so different it is actually protected by a patent until 1959!

If you want a watch that gives you utmost in precision, along with the very latest in style, be sure to see the new Gruen watches. Let us show you the patented Gruen Curvex or the equally famous patented Gruen Veri-Thin.
